CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

CHANCELLOR'S OFF. 2

PUBLISHED BY THE UNCW DEVELOPMENT OFFICE
VOLUME XIV, NUMBER 19
JANUARY 10, 1985

TRAVEL REMINDER

Registration and/or tuition fees for conferences, workshops or conventions which have to be paid for in advance are to be processed via a check request and sent directly to accounting. (Requisitions sent to purchasing for the above mentioned items will be returned to the requisitioning department). The check request must reference the approved travel request number and, if appropriate, the approved BDA number. Copies of these approved forms must be submitted to accounting before the check request can be processed.

TRAVEL RATE CHANGE

The US Internal Revenue Service has issued a ruling that mileage reimbursements to employees in excess of 20.5¢ per mile is taxable income to the employee and that employers must report the full reimbursement on a form W-2 wage and tax statement to the US Internal Revenue Service and NC Department of Revenue. As a result, UNCW will decrease the mileage reimbursement rate from 21¢ to 20.5¢ per mile for private vehicles used for the employee's convenience. You may still elect to complete the form for "Certification of Nonavailability of State Owned Vehicle" if you desire to be reimbursed at the 25¢ rate. You should be forewarned that the entire amount (25¢ X number of miles traveled) will be subject to all withholding taxes and special record keeping requirements must be met to take the deduction on your tax return. A more thorough explanation will be included with the January paychecks.

ING REMEMBERED

"The Late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Remembered" will be the theme of the second annual program of commemoration in his honor January 15 at 3:30 p.m. in King Hall Auditorium. FEDERAL
FAIR LABOR
STANDARDS ACT

In February, 1985, the Supreme Court reversed its 1976 decision in the case of Garcia VS San Antonio Metropolitan Transit Authority. As a result State and local government employees (including UNCW employees) are again subject to the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA). The Act establishes minimum wage, overtime, and recordkeeping requirements for subject employees. Memoranda describing in more detail the requirements as they affect UNCW employees are now being distributed across campus. Several informational sessions are also being planned for the latter part of May and early June by the University Personnel Office at which time FLSA requirements will be discussed. University administrators, supervisors, and employees are requested to call Alice Maile at ext. 3392, or Brenda Dineen at ext. 3712, if interested in attending an informational session. Dates, time, and place of sessions will depend upon the interest shown.

WELLNESS TIP The Head. Yes, the head really is the body's chimney (you lose as much as 40 percent of your body heat through your head) so it's important to cap your noggin accordingly. Best for the job is a hat that's fluffy and fits comfortably (better a wool ski cap, for example, than something tight fitting with a brim) and it's a good idea to have your hat cover the tips (at least) of your ears. PHONE

Do you accept phone calls while someone is sitting in your office? If so, you are wasting the person's time and creating an exasperating situation -- especially if the call is prolonged. If you must take a call, excuse yourself and keep it short. Example, "I am in a meeting. May I call you back in a few minutes?" Three exceptions:

1. If the call is pertinent to your meeting
2. If the person calling might favorably impress the person you are with
3. When you are training a subordinate on telephone techniques or when you want the employee to get first-hand information about a situation

Scientific discoveries that IMBR has been responsible for include: Discovery of the high pressure effects on the brain; guiding the first experiments into what is now called the High Pressure Neurological Syndrome in which tests were conducted on man; extensive experimentation in controlling the severity and development of that syndrome, including the use of gases such as nitrogen or hydrogen to minimize the effects of high pressure on the brain and bringing hydrogen back to the attention of the diving community. This was originally done in 1968, and has just come to full fruition in 1985 with human diving experiments demonstrating the feasibility of valuable properties of using hydrogen in deep diving mixtures. WELLNESS
TIP

Any change in diet, especially an increase in protein or salt consumption or an increase in exercise or outdoor temperature may raise your fluid requirements. Drugs such as diuretics, alcohol and caffeine may also lead to excess water loss. In normal circumstances your thirst is the best sign that you need fluid. However, if you are exercising or working strenuously in the heat, don't wait until you are thirsty. Drink two glasses of water before and after your workout, and if possible, stop every 20 minutes or so and drink another glass. (Source: Berkeley Wellness Letter, University of California).

HMO
CARE

The state is offering employees who live in certain geographical areas a choice between the state health insurance and a Health Maintenance Organization (HMO), an alternative health care delivery system. All HMO'S have what is called a "service area" which is usually within a 30-mile radius in which you must reside to be eligible. The state recognizes three HMO's, Blue Cross Blue Shield (BCBS Personal Care), Kaiser Permanente and Pru Care of Charlotte. The three HMO's are concentrated in metropolitan areas, however, BCBS may offer an HMO sometime next year in the Wilmington area. UNCW employees eligible to participate in an HMO have been mailed materials describing schedules of benefits and the open enrollment deadline. Eligible employees must consider advantages of HMO's such as broader coverage, greater preventative care, coordinated services at one location and reduced out-of-pocket expenses. Disadvantages may include out-of-plan area coverage problems, geographical location and possible loss of choice of doctors and hospitals. For questions concerning HMO's call Dianne Smith at 3162.

WELLNESS TIP

Coffee creamers are no treat for the heart. If you think you are doing your heart and waistline a favor by whitening your java with a nondairy, cholesterol-free creamer, think again! A primary ingredient in most nondairy creamers is coconut oil--a substance higher in saturated fat, a suspected blood-cholesterol raiser, than pure lard. If you really want to be nice to you, try evaporated skim milk in your coffee. (Source: Body Bulletin.)

WELLNESS
TIP

If a thunderstorm is raging and you are inside a house without a lightning rod, which should you stay away from? (a) the bathtub, (b) the windows, (c) the telephone? All of the above. Don't stand by an open window, don't bathe, and don't make phone calls until the storm blows over. Your body may attract lightning through a window, and plumbing could also serve as a conductor. Although telephone equipment is designed to prevent electric surges, a bad thunderstorm can send them down the line. Painful jolts are not unusual and electrocution is not unknown.
